WAYPOINT ANALYTICAL – COVID-19 UPDATE

Waypoint Analytical, LLC operates 7 Environmental Laboratories, 9 Environmental Outposts, and 8 Agricultural Laboratories supported by numerous field based personnel. With facilities and personnel spanning coast to coast, we are very aware of the impact COVID-19 is having on businesses and individuals in all regions.

In keeping with our standard philosophy of superior service to our clients, Waypoint Analytical is currently operating with no interruptions or capacity issues and has no plans to change our operating schedule. We are considered an essential business given our impact on regulatory industries of many types and agricultural food production. As everyone is aware, this situation remains fluid and is changing on a daily basis. Waypoint will continue to notify our clients to the best of our ability when there are issues that will delay or affect our ability to provide services.

Waypoint Analytical operates with an abundance of caution by following the commonsense guidelines as recommended by the health care professionals at the CDC. We are also in receipt of special directives regarding sample kit delivery and pickup from a number of our environmental clients. While adhering to these guidelines and directives, Waypoint Analytical is still available to assist as normal by delivering kits and picking up samples.

Each of our locations has also modified our sample receiving policies and procedures to ensure the safety and protection of all of our employees and our clients by attempting to limit personal contact whenever possible. Please contact your Waypoint Analytical location for details specific to that location.

Should you have questions regarding our services and continued operations during this global emergency, do not hesitate to contact your Waypoint Analytical Location, Project Manager, or Account Manager. We are always grateful to be of service.
